Sheriff Freed of Charges at Morrilton

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Circuit Judge Wiley Bean dismissed two cases brought against Sheriff Marlin Hawkins by two justices of the peace today and called the Conway County Grand Jury to investigate the possibility of conspiracy against Hawkins.

In a speech to the jury in court, Bean attacked Republican GOP candidate Winthrop Rockefeller for his financing of what he called a crusade by former Morrilton newspaper editor Gene Wirges.

"We are actually living in a state of anarchy," Bean said. "A few people have taken the law into their own hands."

The court session in which Bean made his charge to the grand jury climaxed a long battle between Wirges and Conway County officials. Wirges lost his newspaper last year after libel judgments were assessed against him.

"One year ago there was sworn testimony in this court to the effect that Winthrop Rockefeller, the man from Petit Jean Mountain, had backed Wirges to the tune of $46,000 to scatter his venom and hate among your people," Bean said. "Since that time, Mr. Wirges has said he has visited half the counties in Arkansas besides six other states, investigating Marlin Hawkins, and that Mr. Rockefeller is paying his expenses for this dirty work."

"It is my considered judgment," Bean said, "that a two party system in Arkansas might be worth while, but I say to you that as long as the tactics are used here as I have just outlined, there will never be a two-party system in the state of Arkansas. No good Republican will condone such a crusade."

"Money is a fine thing to have and can prove very beneficial when properly used, but from my experience in Conway County, I can only say God forbid another millionaire from migrating to Arkansas," Bean said.

The situation got into circuit court this way:

On Oct. 14, Justice of the Peace Leon Brents issued a warrant for Hawkins to appear before him on an affidavit sworn out by Chester Boyer, involving a drunk driving arrest May 12, 1958.

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP)—A second justice of the peace ordered Sheriff Marlin Hawkins to appear before him in connection with a sworn affidavit Monday.

Hawkins' attorneys headed off the action at least temporarily, however, in circuit court.

Justice of the Peace Walter Savage of Plumberville ordered Hawkins to appear on a warrant involving an affidavit sworn by Howard Eugene Kilgough of Lamar involving an arrest allegedly made by Hawkins on a drunk driving charge.

Hawkins' attorneys asked Circuit Judge Wiley Bean to prohibit the hearing before Savage, and Bean ordered Savage to appear before him at 9 a.m. today to show cause why the writ of prohibition should not be granted.

Savage said he would appear. At the same time, Justice of the Peace Leon Brents was to appear on an order issued by Bean last week. Brents was ordered to show cause why Hawkins should not be granted a change of venue on a similar hearing ordered by Brents last week.

Brents ordered Hawkins to appear on a warrant involving an affidavit sworn out by Chester Boyer. It also involves an arrest allegedly made by Hawkins on a drunk driving charge.

Hawkins posted $1,000 bond before Brents last week and was ordered to appear for a trial Tuesday afternoon.

Hawkins' lawyers asked for a change of venue. Brents refused and the lawyers asked Bean to order a change of venue. Bean then told Brents to appear before him to show cause why the change should not be granted.

There's Many Things a Man Would Never Miss, Including Some Campaign Workers

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things we'd never miss:

Smartly desk signs that say things like, "Don't just sit there — go away!" Political campaign buttons. Women political campaign workers who knocked on our door and want to argue the merits of their candidate, when they already are so full of martinis they can't pronounce his name.

Skywriters who write messages in the blue that blow away before they can be read. Fat ladies who hold up snappy little dogs that snap at you.

The grouchy homeowner who won't give kids baseball back if they knock it into his front yard. Picnics or outdoor barbecues held after Sept. 15. Cats that turn a snooty nose to a new kind of food after you go to a lot of trouble fixing it for them.

Women over 40 who blow smoke rings through their nose. Women of any age who dangle a cigarette from their lips helplessly and then use that old movie line, "Light me, big boy!" Wives who discuss their husbands' faults out loud while traveling on a bus.

Cocktail parties held to launch a new business product. Trick cigs. Any child over 12 who asks riddles. Letters that offer to help a fellow invest his spare cash when he already is two weeks late on meeting a bank loan payment.

So-called humorous postcards.

Says Fulbright a Johnson Captive

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Guy Newcomb of Osceola, co-chairman of the Arkansas Citizens for Goldwater, charged Monday that Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., is a political captive of President Johnson.

Newcomb made the charge after reading an interview in which Fulbright criticized Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Republican presidential nominee, and praised Johnson.

Among things Fulbright said in the interview, published Monday, was that adoption of even a part of Goldwater's program would mean disaster for the South.

"This is one of the most vicious, unprincipled examples of political half-truths a supposedly responsible lawmaker has ever sought to cram down the throats of his constituency," Newcomb said.

Barry Wants Security Report on Jenkins

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater wages his presidential campaign on three fronts today after asking for an FBI report on "possible security factors" involved in the case of resigned White House aide Walter W. Jenkins.

The Republican presidential nominee planned to spend the day recording a television speech dealing with foreign policy and developments in the Communist world.

He hits the road again tonight for an address at Pikesville, Md. He canceled a speech in Baltimore and postponed until Oct. 28 another at Salisbury to prepare the television show.

He is due to appear on nationwide television for a half-hour tonight to talk about morality in government.

Goldwater Monday sent a letter to the Jenkins matter to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

President Johnson asked Jenkins to resign a week ago after it was learned the White House aide had twice been arrested — on Oct. 7 and in 1959 — on morals charges. Jenkins was Johnson's top assistant.

Johnson ordered Hoover to have the FBI make a full investigation.

Goldwater disclosed in his letter to Hoover that two FBI agents came to him in Chicago last Saturday to ask about Jenkins. He said they arrived at 6:30 a.m. to ask "whether I knew anything of the personal habits of Mr. Walter Jenkins."

"I informed them of my very limited knowledge of the man, based on the fact that he is a member of my Air Force Reserve squadron on Capitol Hill," Goldwater said.

The senator, a major general in the Air Force Reserve, commands the 99th Squadron, made up largely of congressmen and their aides.

Goldwater said he thought it curious that two agents were assigned to conduct the brief interview, that the hour they arrived "reflected apparent urgency" — and that "my opinion of the subject's loyalty ... was not asked."

The senator said security questions are "my sole interest in this affair."

He asked Hoover: "Why was Mr. Jenkins not subjected to a thorough security check and investigation upon moving into a highly sensitive position in the White House?"

"It certainly is apparent from what has already been disclosed that no such check was asked for or made."

The foreign affairs speech is tentatively planned for broadcast Wednesday night. GOP National Chairman Dean Burch protesting the government's denial of free time to Goldwater to match President Johnson's Sunday night broadcast — asked for contributions Monday night to help pay for it.

Forestry Day at Hope Station

Tree farmers and others interested in forestry are invited and urged to attend the Forestry Study Day at the Southwest Branch Experiment Station at Hope on Friday, October 23.

Cecil Bittle, assistant director in charge, has planned an outstanding tour of the forestry research projects, beginning at 9:30 a.m. Those attending will also see some of the damage caused by forest insects and the control measures in effect, reports Calvin Caldwell, county agent.

The study day is being held as a part of National Forest Products Week — October 18-24. Of particular interest to tree farmers will be the presentation of awards to the best tree farmer in each county in Southwest Arkansas. In addition to these awards, a plaque will be presented by John Collins, state chairman of the Arkansas tree farm organization, to the one outstanding tree farmer in the Southwest area.

Following a Dutch lunch, Art Smith, executive secretary of the Arkansas Wood Products Association, will discuss "From Tree Farm to Market." Many farmers in Hempstead County should welcome information on how to best market their timber.

Industries to Be Visited Here

The Members of the Hope Chamber of Commerce will visit three new industries on Wednesday, starting at 2 p.m. at the Chamber office.

The group will go to Tolber Corp., Hempstead Manufacturing Co., and the G&S Manufacturing plant. This is the second annual "Recognition Days" for local industries.

Johnson Times Schedule for Home Stretch

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is scheduling a series of home-stretch campaign trips.

Subject to the priorities of the presidential job, he is understood to have told his campaign lieutenants he will attempt to make personal appearances in all areas where they believe such campaigning will boost his vote total.

The president's obvious aim is not only to defeat Sen. Barry Goldwater but to rout his Republican opponent. This involves direct attacks on Goldwater's position in areas where then GOP strategists believe their candidate is strongest.

After a meeting Wednesday with his special advisory committee on foreign policy, Johnson is expected to take off again for Ohio. Goldwater has listed the Buckeye state as one he must carry if he is to win.

The president is scheduled to speak in Baltimore Thursday night. Maryland has been named along with New Jersey and Pennsylvania as among the middle Atlantic states where Goldwater's strategists believe he has a good chance.

These appearances may be followed by a presidential trip into Tennessee for a speech at Memphis. Goldwater's aides called the races in Tennessee and Arkansas close ones which their man could win. From Memphis, Johnson could expect to get local television coverage in both states.

The president also is considering a weekend visit to Florida. The Goldwater camp is counting heavily on Florida's 14 electoral votes and believes they are within the grasp of the GOP nominee.

All of the President's schedules remain highly tentative. He is reported committed to visit New York, California and Michigan before the Nov. 3 voting. California, with its 43 electoral votes, is a key state so far as Goldwater is concerned. The Republican nominee has made no claim that he can win New York's 43 electoral votes.

In Michigan, the Democrats are worried that a lengthy strike of Detroit newspapers may hamper their local candidates and Johnson's chances of carrying that state with its 21 electoral votes. A Johnson visit there, with accompanying television coverage, would be expected to help make up for the lack of newspaper coverage in the key Detroit area.

U.S. Watching Russia for More Trouble

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials are watching for possible further upheaval in the Soviet Union's leadership as they consider what steps the United States should take in the coming weeks to deal with changed international conditions.

President Johnson, who conferred with congressional leaders for 2½ hours Monday, has called a meeting of his special advisory committee on foreign policy for Wednesday. This group of prominent private citizens will be given detailed reports on world developments and asked to consider various possible actions.

Johnson told newsmen that he had met with the congressional leaders, Democrats and Republicans, but gave no details of the information presented to them. He said the reports he and several Cabinet members gave constituted "a highly classified briefing."

It is understood that administration officials told the legislative leaders they are not sure what issues, domestic or international, led to the overthrow of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The briefing is also understood to have brought out that while Leonid I. Brezhnev, 57, seems to be the top man in the Soviet ruling group, the actual post-Khrushchev power structure is not yet clear and the possibility of further changes, possibly involving a power struggle in the Kremlin, must be borne in mind.

Khrushchev's formal authority was divided between Brezhnev, as first secretary of the Communist party, and Alexei N. Kosygin, 60, as premier.

U.S. experts said real power in the Soviet Union is vested in the Communist party's Presidium, which is a kind of board of directors with Brezhnev's position that of chairman of the board.

Administration officials say the situation faced by Brezhnev, Kosygin and other members of the Communist ruling group is basically different in one respect from that which faced the men who took over after Stalin's death in 1953.

The men now in power have had a great deal of experience in working together. They have had authority with Khrushchev, who spent almost three years' time away from Moscow.

It is considered possible, therefore, that the process of shaking down into an orderly government under the new leadership will be less difficult for the current rulers than for Stalin's successors.

The most immediate of the difficulties faced by the new leadership is a scheduled meeting of 26 Communist party representatives in Moscow in mid-October.

NEW YORK (AP) — Herbert Clark Hoover, 31st president of the United States, died today at the age of 90.

Death came at 11:35 a.m. His death followed a recurrence of massive gastro intestinal hemorrhage.

The staunch old statesman, whose life spanned a varied career of engineering, high office and humanitarian service, had kept busy almost to the last.

Hoover's two sons were at his bedside when the end came. "Work" was his rule. He called it "the best antidote to talk of ills and pills."

Death came quiet at his apartment at the Waldorf Towers which he described as his "comfortable monastery."

Hoover will lie in state in St. Bartholomew's Church, Park Avenue and 51st Street, for two he will be taken by train to days. After memorial services, Washington.

There, he will lie in state under the rotunda of the national capitol.

Repeatedly, and sometimes almost miraculously in his latter years, he had fought off serious ailments.

But time, and, it seems, fate.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The world's middleweight title bout between champion Joe Giardello and Rubin (Hurricane) Carter scheduled for Friday night has been called off and the possibility of a fight between the two remained in doubt today.

There were late-minute compromises, but the Giardello forces insisted on the complete terms of the contract, namely the $55,000 in certified checks.

Says Women Athletes Do Look Good

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — "And who do you think you are, buster," asked the irate letter. "Marlon Brando?"

Well, it's true that we are often mistaken for each other, but Marlon's not here at the Tokyo Olympics so there's no problem along those lines.

The letter, of course, came from a mother.

She was so mad she put 80 cents worth of stamps on it.

It seems that a story written from here in just had commented on the fact that some of the Olympic ladies who pitch the discus and paddle their own canoes have never been tabbed for the Miss Universe contest.

Loads of gold and all that. Good to their mothers, and always in bed by 11.

But ravishing beauties — uh, uh.

At least all of them are not.

If you've been paying attention during this carnival of fun and games, you undoubtedly will agree that that is a fair statement.

But not Mrs. Kay Peterson of Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Mrs. Peterson has both a daughter in the Olympics, and a point.

"Go over to the Olympic Village and look at my daughter, the volleyball player," ordered Mrs. Peterson, and soon we were face to face with this blonde doll with a great shape, name of Sharon Peterson.

"My mother told me about you," said Sharon. "What do you mean by insulting lady volleyball players?"

"Honey," was the reply, "I didn't insult any lady volleyball players. Gosh, I didn't know we had any lady volleyball players when I wrote that story."

"Well, you do now," said Sharon.

"I know they have mothers, too."

It turns out Sharon is 21, a graduate of Long Beach State who is going on to be a teacher of physical education, took up volleyball three years ago, and is a member of the South Bay Triumphs.

The girls have worked hard, trained hard and are kept hustling by their coach, Ida Litschauer of Compton, Calif., but after they finish their Olympic schedule they hope to see a little of Japan and do some shopping.

So there, the Americans have a good-looking ladies volleyball team in the Olympics.

And Sharon is a doll, even when she's mad.

How is the team doing? I was afraid you'd ask.

They may be cute, but they've lost four straight, and have only one game to go.

Well, looks aren't everything — but with a record like that, they help.

Frederick the Great of Prussia established the first military band in 1763.

Illegal Poll Taxes

Editor The Star: I see in the Hope Star about the record-breaking number of people paying poll taxes. I understand 8,000 paid their poll taxes in order to be eligible to vote. What I am writing this letter for is to express my interest in how many of those people have died over a year ago and how many of those people have moved away a long time ago. Those people are ineligible to vote.

I happened to address post cards to the people living in Jaka Jones, my box, where I have voted so many times in the past before I moved to Hope. There were 77 names on the voter list from the poll tax books published in 1963. I knew a majority of names on that list. I found two Negroes still on the poll tax list who died some years ago plus five more names of people who moved away over a year ago and two others who do not even live in Jaka Jones precinct. That makes about 10 per cent of the names on the voter list ineligible to vote in Jaka Jones precinct. It is a sander if 10 per cent of those names are ineligible to vote from 8,000 voters all over Hempstead county—there will be 800 names certainly used in the election which are illegal or 800 votes illegal regardless of how many people voted.

I ran into a true story about a Latin fellow living down in the Jim Wells County of Texas. He had his feelings badly hurt and was crying; his friend came along and asked him what his trouble was. This Latin fellow said it was about his own father who was so dear and close to him. Well that father had been dead over 10 years but he came to town the other day and voted for Lyndon Johnson. That is true said the Latin fellow but his Daddy did not come by to see him when he came to town to vote.

When the new poll tax books came out containing names of those being "eligible" to vote it wouldn't be a bad idea to go over the list of those living in your respective precincts. If any one of the honest conservative voters will take time out both Democrats and Republicans, and go over the list yourselves and find as many of those "eligible" names as you can and take immediate action I believe the election will result closer and cleaner than it would be otherwise. I even wrote a letter expressing my disappointment to the Sheriff about having those names. I heard no reply from him and that was two weeks ago.

Defends Chamber of Commerce

Editor The Star: This letter is in reply to a merchant about the remodeling job in progress on the Chamber of Commerce office. The City of Hope owns the buildings used by the Chamber. After investigation of the possibility of remodeling the buildings, the City Board of Directors and the Water and Light Commission approved the work now being done. The supervision of the work is being done by a three man committee on a gratis basis. The project is being supervised by ten local firms and two out of town firms. These two out of town firms are the roofing contractor and the electric heating and air conditioning contractor. The roofing contractor was selected because of his reputation for doing a good job. The heating and air conditioning contractor was selected because of the brand of unit, its proven use, and type. This contractor will use local sheetmetal work and local electricians as he has done in the past. Each supplier has been told about the nature of this job and each one will do what he can to see that we will get the most work for the money spent. A letter was mailed to each Chamber member explaining the project after the present Chamber Board met to consider the work.

No one realizes more the importance of buying at home than a member of the Chamber of Commerce. The material and labor for this job could easily have been supplied by five local firms and two out of town firms but because every citizen of Hope should have an interest in the Chamber of Commerce, ten local firms are being used.

Who is the Chamber of Commerce? It is you and you and you and I. It is all of us who have any desire to better our city. Whether we be registered Chamber members or not, from time to time we have the occasion to reflect to someone the picture of our city and it's way of life. So many times we are prone to sit back and let someone else contribute either financially or of their time and abilnally claimed him. No other former president except John Adams, the nation's second chief executive who died at 90, had reached such an advanced age. Adams lived 90 years and eight months, Hoover, 90 years and two months.

Hoover, who passed that mark Aug. 10, 1964, said in a birthday message that the key to America's abundance is its freedom.

"Freedom is the open window through which pours the sunlight of the human spirit and of human dignity."

As president when the "great Depression" hit the nation in 1929, Hoover endured much abuse, but he lived to regain wide affection and esteem as a wise, humane elder statesman.

He was sought out for counsel by Democratic officeholders, as well as Republicans. Countless friends and admirers came to love him as a man of immense sympathies and gentle wit.

Even his grave illnesses of recent times did not stop him from leisurely conversations with callers, and from keeping two secretaries at work with his writing.

Until lately, it had taken eight of them to keep up with his output. But waning health slowed him down.

He underwent surgery for an abdominal cancer in August, 1962; made an astounding comeback from anemia brought on by intestinal bleeding in June, 1963, and recovered from a kidney hemorrhage complicated by a respiratory infection in February, 1964.

Asked how he felt on his 90th birthday, he said, "too old."

He didn't make it to the 1964 Republican Convention in San Francisco, although he had attended every other one since 1928. But "the grand old man of the Grand Old Party" sent a farewell message, nothing he had offered his last word before, but "this is really it."

In that message, he said "peace of the world is the first obligation of statesmen and government" and that the "major world issue today is whether government shall be the servant or master of men."

Hoover's image was that of "American individualism" and of unswerving devotion to country.

"The soul of our America," he once said, "is its freedom of spirit and mind in man."

His range of public service included direction of massive relief operations in World War I, food administration at home, secretary of commerce and then the presidency from 1929 to 1933.

In later years, he made worldwide food surveys for the government, was chairman of the nonpartisan Hoover Commission studying executive branch operations, and carried on various other tasks.

One of his last excursions out of his apartment was in May, 1963, when he spurned his doctor's advice against it, and spoke at a reception honoring astronaut Maj. Gordon Cooper Jr.

Hoover equated the early space flights with the bold expeditions of great explorers such as Lewis and Clark, Lindbergh and Byrd.

He was approaching a new year in Chamber work. Let us each pledge ourselves to give of our time and means as a citizen of Hope and a member of the Chamber of Commerce. Being critical of the Chamber of Commerce is an easy job. Which of these will you do.

Summer Spending Is Up $2 Billion

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — American consumers spent at least $2 billion more this summer than they did in the spring months. So they can claim the credit today for keeping the nation's economy right on its predicted rate of gain.

Some other sectors of the economy slowed a bit in the July-August-September quarter, but the rate at which citizens parted with their money speeded up.

And with the final quarter of the year under way, and hopes high for a record volume of production and spending, 1964 seems sure to see that biggest statistic of them all, the gross national product, hit the record $623 billion that was predicted in January by the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

There are worries and possible roadblocks. The General Motors strikes will have to be settled soon or the general economy will suffer. There are the uncertainties of a presidential election. The slowdown in home building is a drag right now. But on balance the prospects are still bright.

The gross national product is the dollar value of all the goods and services produced in the nation. Consumer spending is the biggest item, and sooner or later affects most of the others.

As the final three months started, consumer spending was running at an estimated annual rate of $494.5 billion. The Commerce Department says this was a gain of $8.4 billion (at an annual rate) from the April-May-June quarter when such spending had risen $6.1 billion at an annual rate from the first three months of the year.

Despite the eal with which the consumer spent his money, the entire increase of the economy was at a slower pace in the summer months.

In each of the first two quarters of the year, the gross national product was going up at a $9.8 billion clip. The third quarter advance was $8.9 billion.

But it was enough to bring the annual rate to $627.5 billion. With a good final spurt in these final months, the year should average out close to the $623 billion total predicted.

This would be a $39.1 billion advance over 1963's total of $583.9 billion. This year's increase would be well above the $27.7 billion advance of 1963 over the previous year's total $556.2 billion.

Rising prices play a part in all of the increases in total output. But the average price increases have been held below 2 per cent a year.

If prices don't spurt in coming weeks — and few think they will — the year's economic gains in constant dollars will run 5 per cent or better above the previous year.

The Defense Ministry announced his arrest Saturday night and called him a traitor.

Alt Asineu was the political brain behind the Kabylie revolt that broke out a year ago among the Berber population east of Algiers.

With the completion of the Kansas City Southern Railroad in 1896 DeQueen (original name Calamity) became the agricultural and industrial center of Sevier County, and the county seat was moved there in 1905.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Fantasticks" is an imaginative little musical comedy whose rudimentary scenery calls upon the audience to use its own imagination. It has been running off-broadway for more than four years.

Sunday night NBC's "Hall of Fame" presented a more lavish adaptation of the theatrical hit as its premiere production of the television season.

Visually it was beautiful, as all "Hall of Fame" programs are likely to be. Scenically, it was far more specific.

The boy and the girl, John Davidson and Susan Watson, were handsome and sang well. Bert Lahr and Stanley Holloway are funny men under almost any circumstances, although comic material as the two fathers of the lovers was lean. Ricardo Montalban was graceful and bold playing a sort of play catalyst in a dashing Mexican costume. The music was tuneful with lyrics that were philosophical, romantic and humorous.

But something unfortunate must have happened to "The Fantasticks" during its journey from stage to television. Perhaps it was because it was cut about one-third to fit into a television hour. Whatever the cause the result was a rather dull rambling and sometimes downright confusing story.

On the other hand it was very clear what Dinah Shore was doing in the first of her new ABC special programs on Saturday night. She was back after a year's absence in a familiar role as hostess singer and star of a variety hour.

With guest stars Rosemarie George Gobel and David Janssen she spent most of the time in song and sketch alternating kidding and praising teen-agers. Generally the humor was gentle and the music was good. Dinah's new show however seemed to be missing some of the chic and silky smooth production that characterized her old NBC shows.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Well, it looked just like old times with Alice Faye smiling as she walked down the runway and singing, "Come on along, come on along, to Alexander's Ragtime Band."

No, this wasn't another of the endless television replays of the great 1936 musical she made with Tyrone Power and Don Ameche. This was Alice Faye 26 years later, looking just as blonde and beautiful and sounding the same mellow notes.

Alice was back for one of her periodic excursions from the great American desert to appear on a Hollywood Palace show that will appear on ABC Nov. 14. She seemed to be happy to be back in action once more, but the weather made her wonder: Was this trip necessary?

"Oh, the smog," she groaned. "I don't know how you people stand it. Yesterday I was crying all through rehearsals. And the heat! Nothing is air conditioned here; there's no escape."

But she admitted that she enjoyed getting back into the routine, even though she was "pushed" into the Palace date.

By whom? "By Phil," she said, referring to her corn-pone hubby, Phil Harris. He likes to see her keep her hand in the entertainment scene.

The Harrises were pioneers among the Hollywood expatri-

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States still has a 50-50 chance of beating the Russians in the first manned spacecraft landing and takeoff on the moon, in the opinion of a U.S. space expert.

Dr. Edward C. Welsh acting director and executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, conceded the Oct. 12 three-man Soviet orbital flight demonstrates that the Russians are ahead.

But he said Sunday in an interview on Radio Press International's "From the People" program that it is not likely the spacecraft was very much heavier than other spacecraft, and he doubted the booster would have to be as strong as the U.S. Saturn rocket.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S.S. Croatan, a World War II escort aircraft carrier, will be the nation's first floating rocket launch pad.

The vessel, staffed with civil service personnel, will be taken on a shakedown cruise this fall to test equipment intended to launch more than 40 scientific packages to altitudes of 170 miles or more during a three-month expedition.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A news media steering committee has been recommended by a group of news executives to consider various aspects of the Warren Commission's criticism of the coverage of events in Dallas, Tex., following the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The commission, headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren, reproached the news media for "lack of self discipline" and suggested a code of conduct for covering legal proceedings without interfering with criminal investigations.

Representatives of five news organizations discussing the Warren report suggested that a committee be established to conduct meetings for the exchange of ideas on mass coverage of a major event, pool coverage in special situations, and whether the public right to know might be impaired by codes or other restrictions on news coverage.

Organizations represented included the American Society of Newspaper Editors, Radio-Television News Directors Association, National Press Photographers Association, Associated Press Managing Editors, Inc., and Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society.

Auto Museum Is Dedicated

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Winthrop Rockefeller dedicated his new Museum of Automobiles Sunday and said it was the type of project which would help build the future of Arkansas.

Rockefeller called the Museum a "wonderful example of the pride I have in Arkansas." Alan Symond, director of the museum, estimated more than 7,500 people watched 141 antique cars parade in review. Some 181 automobile were registered for a two-day Antique Automobile Fair, which included a hill climbing event.

The event was stopped by the state police after they said they had received complaints that Arkansas 158 was being blocked. Symonds said the museum thought it had tentative approval for the climb, but "as far as we're concerned it's a closed matter." He said the old cars were traveling singly up the road.

Freezing Weather in Some Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Freezing temperatures, rain and some snow were reported this morning in the eastern part of the nation, while a warming trend developed west of the Rocky Mountains.

Temperatures skidded into the 20s through the central Rockies and frost or freezing weather was likely as far south as the Oklahoma-Texas Panhandle area. Some snow swirled down over the northern Great Lakes region.

Ahead of the cold front, cool Pacific air spread south and states who have settled permanently in Palm Springs. Phil and Alice landed there 14 years ago. She admitted the danger of living year-around in resort town — friends from the city are apt to drop in any time expecting to party.

Alice left the homestead three years ago to make her first film in 14 years, "State Fair." It marked a return to 20th Century-Fox, where she had made all her previous films. "On the Avenue," "Sing, Baby, Sing," "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Rose of Washington Square," "Hello, Frisco, Hello," etc.

Alice, now thrice a grandmother, says she and Phil will continue living on the desert — at least until the smog comes.

"I see it hanging over the mountains," she said. "I suppose it will get to us eventually. Then I don't know what we'll do."

"DEAR ABBY"

THERE ARE EXCEPTIONS!

By Abigail Van Buren
Dear Abby: You have said in your column that it is not proper to put "No Children, Please" on a formal wedding invitation, but if I had it to do over again, I would include it on mine. I was married in June and there were 16 children under 12 years old at my wedding, and I don't mind telling you that they ruined it for me. At the reception they put their fingers in the punch bowl, threw food on the floor, and they were filthy from running, falling down and sliding all over the dance floor. One overgrown 8-year-old girl fell on the musician's cello and broke it to bits, and I was responsible. I don't care if it is improper. I am sorry I let my mother talk me out of making sure no children spoiled my wedding.

SORRY
Dear Abby: When I am asked what is "proper," I consult two authorities on etiquette and quote them. But I have also said that there are "laws" that transcend the laws of Emily and Amy. I mean the laws of consideration, convenience and common sense. And if the rules of etiquette are passed over in favor of these, the dissenter deserves to be congratulated.

Dear Abby: You have always held my highest esteem with your replies, concerning domestic problems, but you lost in the bid in the bridge department. When "Honest Abe" asked whether it was acceptable to peek at an opponent's cards, you said "NO."

As debate, I submit this quotation from Ely Culbertson: "If a player exposes any part of his hand to an opponent, he has only himself to blame if the opponent takes advantage of it."

Sincerely,
"PEEKER"
Dear "Peeker": True enough. The one who holds his cards carelessly, thereby giving his opponent the advantage has only himself to blame. But is the opponent "blameless" for taking the advantage just because it is available? I think not.

Dear Abby: Yes, it does get tiresome continually to tell a person to hold her cards so no one can see them, or "cheat your cards," as they say in Vermont. The player is so accustomed to hearing this that after a while it doesn't register. Here's how I cured someone: I said, "I see that you have four spades."

Insurance Firm Names Arkanson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—Clyde F. Fay, a native of Little Rock, Ark., was elected president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. Monday.

Fay, presently executive vice president, will succeed Byron K. Elliott on Jan. 2. Elliott is also chairman of the board.

Are you going to play the queen or the three-spot? After that she remembered to hold her cards back.

ON GUARD
Dear Abby: We are writing to find out how to put a fabulous new idea in packaging tooth paste on the market. If we contact the tooth paste companies, what would prevent them from looking at our idea, stealing it, giving us nothing and marketing it themselves? How do you go about getting a patent on an idea without having it stolen before the patent goes through? It is an absolutely new concept in the toothpaste field, but we don't know what to do with it. Can you help us?

Children to Try to Get Out Vote

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide, nonpartisan effort will be made next week by school children to induce more adults to cast ballots in the Nov. 3 election.

In the campaign announced Sunday, teams of school children will canvass their neighborhoods on a door-to-door basis seeking pledges from adults that they will vote.

The program will be sponsored jointly by the American Heritage Foundation, the Parent Teacher Association and the National Education Association.

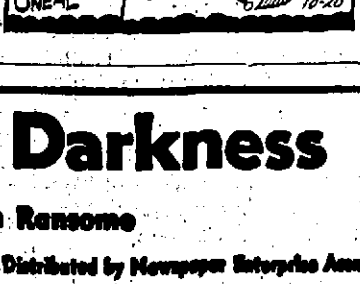

Cartoonist Al Capp suggested the campaign in a letter to former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The teams will wear no political insignia and they will be required to promise not to make mention of politics.

The light flashed back. Craig felt impaled and overpowered. He knew that the man with the rifle would go on holding it ready for quick action on his "splendid target."

The other boat was close alongside now. The man with the lantern was looking into theirs — looking for a suitcase full of money.

"Are you having a bit of difficulty, gentlemen?"

"I'll explain that," Craig said. "I'm sure you will. Name's Craig, isn't it?" The spear of light turned full on Lew. "You're not one of Sandor's footlickers. You look like a cop."

"I'm not any kind of a cop." Lew answered on a low note of anger, as if he had been jabbed in a bruised spot. "I work at a gas station. My daughter is Sandor's secretary. I've got no stake in this deal. Personally I don't care what happens to Sandor."

Craig thought Lew might better tone down his hostile bluntness. He was going to find it hard enough to deal with the kidnaper without that.

"We've kept the police and the FBI out of this," he said earnestly. "They know nothing about it. We've followed your instructions to letter, as far as we possibly could."

"Smart of you." The voice spoke derisively, with an undertone of acceptance with reservations. "But this ringer. Unlikely sort of chap, y'know. Why him?"

"The rest of us are seriously involved, financially, emotionally. We're too much on edge to trust ourselves. This man is here to help us back up the truth of what I have to tell you."

"In other words, old boy, you can't deliver. You're going to tell me why and you're afraid I'll think you're lying."

"You may not believe me, but you can believe him. You heard him say Sandor means nothing to him. He feels no personal loyalty to me either, or to any of the others. With nothing to lose or gain for himself, he'll level with you."

"In the same spirit of helpfulness, old boy, I strongly advise that."

Craig was struck through by a realization that with a quick twist of circumstances life could become appallingly fragile and trivial. These kidnappers had already committed a capital crime; no matter what they might do now or later, they could never face a worse punishment. If the masked man became enraged at him, an order shouted across the water could bring death of Craig and Lew instantly.

"Now Craig, down to business, as our surly friend suggested. Last night you had the money."

This man knew. He could not know everything that gone on inside closed walls, but his unshaken assurance implied that he knew too much to be tricked.

Craig said, "You were keeping an eye on us."

"Naturally. You've had very few secrets from us these past several days; old boy. Last night's meeting of the clan spoke for itself. Quite gratifying, y'know. Did you have the whole amount?"

"No. We raised all we possibly could, but we fell short by 70 thousand. We were going to ask you to accept."

"One hundred and eighty thousand? Not too bad, really. We might have settled for that."

The voice was amazingly casual almost amused. "In fact, we still will."

"But we can't. We couldn't bring it because we haven't got it. It disappeared and we don't know where it is. During the night — long after midnight —"

The voice turned chill and hard. "Make it good, Craig."

"Understand this — I'm not making it anything. You'll get the truth exactly the way it actually happened."

The man behind the light listened without interrupting. The fact that he asked no questions seemed to mean he was weighing Craig's every word for whatever it was worth—at Sandor's peril.

"There you have it. Those are the straight facts." They seemed strangely inadequate; but a hopeful thought dropped into Craig's mind. "As I said, the money was stolen at some point after 3:30 and 5:40. Were you still there, watching the plant, at that time?"

"Unfortunately no, old boy. I saw a suitcase taken in, evidently empty, and men bringing packages, evidently cash. That was all I needed to see. If I had spotted someone sneaking out of there in the dark, with that suitcase, he wouldn't have got very far with it. It would have simplified matters if I could have grabbed money then and there. I'd have been glad to get the great Sandor off my hands sooner than I'd expected. He's something of a nuisance, y'know."

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, says that the wellbeing of people is the only human goal worth achieving.

Speaking before about 400 persons at the dedication of the new St. Louis Jewish Center for the Aged Sunday, he said that man must match technical progress with social progress.

"By helping to free people from poverty, we release hopes and aspirations that otherwise would be stifled in a daily struggle for sheer survival," he said.

NEW YORK (AP) — W. Averell Harriman, assistant secretary of state and former ambassador to the Soviet Union, says the present regime in Hungary "has begun to break off the domination of Moscow."

Speaking at a meeting of the Democratic party's Hungarian section in New York Sunday, Harriman declined to speculate on the effects of the ouster of Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles F. Yost, 45, of Silver Spring, Md., has been appointed director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Office of Technology Utilization.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. John R. Everette, former chancellor of the City University of New York, has been appointed president of the New School for Social Research in Manhattan.

There are about 60 species of the gardenia, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Several stories have been told as to how Star City came by its name. Probably the most logical ones are that all roads in the county converged in a star shape from its location; or the fact that it is located among a group of hills so situated as to form a star.

U.S. Picks Up Gold Medal in Olympic Games

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — American marksman Lones Wigger produced the United States only medal — a gold — little known Will Holdorf of Germany scored an upset in winning the decathlon and Boston's John Thomas qualified for the high jump final in the Olympic games today.

Thomas' remarks set the stage for a showdown with Russia's Robert Shavliakadze the 1960 champion, and Valery Brumel, the world record holder, in the finals Wednesday when the United States also sends out three favored relay teams on the last day of track and field competition.

Wigger, an Army first lieutenant from Carter, Mont., produced the United States' only medal Tuesday when he scored a world record 1,164 points in winning the small-bore rifle three-position title.

His medal was the 2nd collected by the United States in these 18th modern Olympics. Russia added six to its collection and now has 55. The breakdown between the two dominant nations shows the United States with 32 gold, 21 silver and 19 bronze; Russia with 17 gold, 15 silver, 23 bronze.

Stealing the spotlight from the team struggle between the two titans, however, was Holdorf, 24, German physical education student.

He had to fight off the continuing challenge of countryman Hans-Joachim Walde and Russian Rein Aun, then withstand the closing rush of the favorite, the 1960 silver medalist and world record-holder C.K. Yang, before nailing down the decathlon championship and breaking America's 32-year-old domination of the event.

Holdorf scored 7,887 points under a recently changed scoring table for the grueling, 10-event, two-day test.

Aun finished with 7,842 points and the silver medal, Walde with 7,809.

Paul Herman of Santa Barbara, Calif., was fourth with 7,787.

Yang, the veteran Nationalist Chinese by way of UCLA, who was the heavy favorite, finished fifth with 7,650.

Russ Hodge of Roscoe, N.Y., was ninth with 7,325 and Dick Emberger, Oceanside, Calif., 10th with 7,292.

Wigger's rifle record produced the seventh medal contributed by a surprisingly strong U.S. shooting team and marked his second medal. Earlier, he had taken second in the small-bore rifle prone position.

The United States has won the decathlon in every Olympics since 1932, but its relatively poor showing in these Games was anticipated.

But the surprising strength of the U.S. shooters was not. The victory by Wigger, a stocky U.S. Army first lieutenant from Carter, Mont., was the seventh medal picked up by the marksman and boosted the U.S. medal collection past the 1960 total of 71.

The United States now has 72, including 32 gold. Russia picked up four medals in the early events Tuesday — two each in women's shot put and light-weight judo — and now has 52 including 17 gold.

Wigger, a 5-foot-7, 180-pounder, fired a world record, 1,164 on 120 shots in winning the small bore rifle, three position competition. He previously had taken a silver medal in small bore rifle, prone position.

The United States also pushed its brilliant, heavily favored relay teams through heats to the Wednesday finals without major difficulty, though a poor baton relay jeopardized the men's 400-meter squad in its first heat.

Bob Hayes, the Florida A&M flash who won the gold medal in the 100-meter dash, had to make up two yards on the final leg in that one, did it easily, and later anchored the team to a time of 39.5 seconds in the semifinals, equaling the Olympic record.

The team was made up of Paul Drayton of Cleveland, Gerald Ashworth of Haverhill, Mass., Dick Stebbins of Los Angeles and Hayes.

The men's 1,600 relay, composed of Henry Carr of Detroit, 200-meter gold medal winner; Mike Larrabee of Fillmore, Calif., the 100-meter winner; Ollan Cassell of Nutley, N.J., and Ullis Williams of Compton, Calif., won the heat in 4:00.9.

Hutchinson Resigns From Redlegs

CINCINNATI (AP) — Fred Hutchinson, a cancer sufferer, resigned today as manager of the Cincinnati Reds and Dick Sisler, who has been a coach and acting manager, was named to succeed him.

President and General Manager William O. DeWitt, in making the announcement at a news conference, called it "a sad day and a happy day."

Hutchinson had managed the Reds since 1959 and directed the team to the National League pennant in 1961.

His cancer ailment was discovered the first of this year, but he directed the team through the 1964 season until Aug. 13 when he was given a leave of absence.

He never returned to active management and now is at his home near Bradenton, Fla.

The 44-year-old Sisler became a coach for the Reds in the fall of 1960.

He took over as acting manager when Hutchinson went on leave.

Under his direction, the Reds put on a blazing finish, making up 7½ games against the then league-leading Philadelphia Phillies in the next to the last week of the season.

They dropped four of five games in the final week, however, and lost the pennant to the St. Louis Cardinals on the last day of the season, finishing in a second-place tie with Philadelphia.

DeWitt made public a letter from Hutchinson which said: "I do not believe the condition of my health will permit me to continue to perform the duties as manager of the Reds. I, therefore, request that I be relieved of these duties and also relieved from my contract."

"If I can assist you in any other capacity with the organization, I will be most happy to do so."

Sisler, native of St. Louis, broke into the major leagues with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1946. He subsequently played with the Phillies, being a member of their pennant-winning team in 1950.

He wound up his playing career with San Diego of the Pacific Coast League and Nashville of the Southern Association. He managed Nashville, then a Reds' farm club, in 1957 through 1959. He managed Seattle of the Pacific Coast League in 1960 and then came to the Reds as a coach.

He now lives in Nashville.

Wigger's rifle record produced the seventh medal contributed by a surprisingly strong U.S. shooting team and marked his second medal. Earlier, he had taken second in the small-bore rifle prone position.

The United States has won the decathlon in every Olympics since 1932, but its relatively poor showing in these Games was anticipated.

Arkansas Gains No. 4 Spot in Football Poll

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baseball managers aren't the only ones riding an un-merry go-round this fall. The nation's college football powers have been playing musical chairs since the season's opening whistle, with Ohio State the latest to claim a precarious perch atop the shambles.

Ohio State's fourth straight victory, a 17-0 shutout of Southern California, coupled with Arkansas' 14-13 upset of top-ranked Texas pushed the Buckeyes into first place in The Associated Press weekly poll to day and dropped the Longhorns to sixth.

The Buckeyes, No. 2 a week ago, drew 35 of 44 first-place votes in the balloting of writers and broadcasters for a commanding lead over fast-rising Notre Dame. Ohio State netted 447 points to 380 for the runner-up Irish. Third-ranked Alabama received five first-place votes, Notre Dame and fourth-ranked Arkansas, two each.

The Irish made it four in a row by blanking UCLA 24-0 and Alabama trimmed Tennessee 19-8 for victory No. 5.

Of the top ten teams in the AP's pre-season poll, only four — Ohio State, Alabama, Texas and Syracuse — remain on the select list and only the Buckeyes and Crimson Tide still are unbeaten.

Mississippi, No. 1 in the original balloting, has slipped from contention along with Oklahoma, Illinois, Auburn, Navy and Washington.

Texas, its unbeaten string snapped at 15 games by the rugged Razorbacks, fell a notch behind fifth-ranked Nebraska, which walloped Kansas State 47-0.

Louisiana State, Syracuse, Florida and Florida State complete the top ten. The Gators, who routed South Carolina 37-0, are the only newcomers, replacing Michigan, 21-20 victim of Purdue. LSU beat Kentucky 27-7. Syracuse topped Penn State 21-14 and the Seminoles edged Georgia 17-14.

Florida visits Alabama in Saturday's top attraction. The Gators surprised their Southeastern Conference rivals 10-6 a year ago at Tuscaloosa, Ala. Syracuse should have its hands full at once-beaten Oregon State. Wisconsin, fresh from a 31-21 upset of Iowa, invades Columbus, Ohio, for a Big Ten shot at the front-running Buckeyes.

Notre Dame-Stanford, Arkansas-Wichita, Nebraska-Colorado, Texas-Rice, LSU-Tennessee and Florida State-Virginia Tech are the other pairings involving the top ten clubs.

The Top Ten, with first place votes in parentheses, and total points:

1. Ohio State (35) 447
2. Notre Dame (2) 380
3. Alabama (5) 365
4. Arkansas (2) 297
5. Nebraska 230
6. Texas 194
7. Louisiana State 174
8. Syracuse 123
9. Florida 82
10. Florida State 64

Managers Are Going Fast in Baseball

By TED MEIR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Who says this is the football season? Although the World Series ended last week baseball still is getting a major share of the headlines on sport pages.

In rapid fire developments Monday, Branch Rickey resigned as player consultant for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. Fred Hutchinson resigned as manager of the Cincinnati Reds and was succeeded by Dick Sisler, and Harry (The Hat) Walker was named manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates to succeed Danny Murtaugh.

And today Johnny Keane, who quit as manager of the Cardinals after winning the World Series, is expected to succeed Yogi Berra as manager of the New York Yankees.

Berra was fired after his one season as manager in which he led the Yankees to a fifth straight American League pennant.

Will the Milwaukee Braves move to Atlanta? The answer is expected to be forthcoming Wednesday in a meeting of the Milwaukee board of directors in Chicago. A news conference has been called for 11:30 a.m. EST, Wednesday.

The unexpected resignation of the 83-year-old Rickey left St. Louis wondering what next? Bob Howsam, who was recommended by Rickey to succeed Bing Devine as general manager, announced Rickey's resignation and said nothing more. Neither did owner August Busch Jr. or Rickey himself.

Up in the air is who will be chosen to succeed Keane as manager.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in its Tuesday edition that Red Schoendienst, former star second baseman, is expected to be named the new Cardinal manager within three days.

The resignation of Hutchinson and the signing of Sisler was not a surprise. Hutchinson, ill with cancer, took a leave of absence on Aug. 13 and Sisler managed the Reds the rest of the season. Officially Hutchinson's resignation does not take effect until next spring so he can draw a full pension.

Walker, in signing a one year contract to replace Murtaugh, who quit because of ill health,

Razorbacks Are Bubbling Over

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks, still bubbling about the 14-13 upset of Texas, began defensive preparations Monday for Wichita.

The Hogs spent most of their time running to work out tightness after the tough game with the Longhorns.

The victory over the previously top ranked Longhorns moved Arkansas to the No. 4 spot in national ratings. Texas dropped to sixth.

Coach Frank Broyles said end Jerry Lamb had the only injury in the Texas game. He may miss action in the Saturday night Wichita game with a pulled leg muscle.

Broyles said Wichita has more speed than any team the Razorbacks have played. "It won't be a breather by a long shot," he said.

Now Royal Is Afraid Rice Might Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Darrell Royal hasn't experienced much frustration in recent years at Texas—just the loss of a single game here or there, none of which hurt much. Wonder how the Longhorn coach would think about being frustrated twice in just two weeks?

He got his first Saturday when Arkansas beat his team 14-13—the first loss in 16 games. Next Saturday night he might get his second. That's when Texas plays Rice at Houston and it has been 12 years since the Longhorns have won a game there.

Rice is all primed to give Royal his new experience although the Owls don't appear to be of that caliber in view of their season record. Past records though never have meant much in this bitter rivalry.

Joe Davis, the Rice line coach who has scouted Texas many times, didn't say anything about records but he indicated he figured Texas might be too much for even a jinx to disturb.

"Texas looks just as strong, if not stronger, than last season," said Davis.

Texas last season was national champion.

But both teams should be in good condition for the game and it looks like a typical Rice-Texas battle—a tough one before a sellout crowd of better than 70,000.

Except for the fact that it now must think of its national status instead of just conference, Arkansas would be relaxed this week. The Razorbacks play an interconference game with so-so Wichita. But the Razorbacks have to win to stay high in the rankings.

Coach Frank Broyles said Wichita couldn't be classed as a "breather" by any means.

End Jerry Lamb probably will miss the Wichita game with a pulled muscle but all other Razorbacks are due to be ready, willing and able.

Texas Tech and Southern

Mrs. Bob Stahler of Glen Ellyn, Ill., and defending champions Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rogers of Lamar, Mo., were third.

Korean Boxer Now Banned

TOKYO (AP) — Korean boxer Dong-Kih Choc, who staged a 50-minute sit-down strike in the Olympic ring Monday night, has been banned from international amateur and Olympic boxing for three years.

The Amateur International Boxing Association executive committee decided this Tuesday. They placed a similar bar on Korean boxing Manager Lee Kyu-Hwan and Coaches Ro Byungul and Kang In-Suk.

Choc refused to leave the ring after being disqualified in his quarter-final bout with Russian Stanislav Sorokin. The fight was only 66 seconds old when Australian referee Archie Tanner disqualified him for continually fighting when told to break.

A three-year ban was placed Monday on Argentinean boxer Jose Chirino, who attacked a referee. Spanish featherweight Valentin Joren was banned for life last week after punching a referee who disqualified him.

Methodist, both subdued by defeats last week, didn't have much to say Monday as they started preparing to meet each other at Lubbock Saturday night.

Texas Tech lost starting defensive guard Doug Young with a knee injury that required surgery. He suffered it in the loss to Baylor last week. SMU had no injuries but did indicate some hurt feelings.

Texas A&M and Baylor tangled at Waco Saturday in a homecoming game and the Aggies started working like mad on pass defense as thoughts of the throwing Bears came to mind.

Quarterback Dan McIlhenny was lost to the Aggies because of a knee injury. They'll have to go with sophomore Eddie McKaughan against Baylor.

Baylor was worried about its defense since three senior starters were missing with injuries and it is having to use eight defenders who didn't play defense last year. Linebacker Bobby Maples was the chief casualty and it's doubtful if he can play against the Aggies.

Texas Christian, which won its first game of the season in beating A&M 14-9 last week, was feeling better as it prepared for an interconference test Saturday—against Clemson.

Coech Abe Martin thought his interior line played very well against the Aggies and hoped it would continue the same against the Tigers.
